

TNAFA's Belize Projects Tour "Pueblo to Pueblo Initiative"

inviting Indigenous people to learn and share, restoring the ancient connections with our relatives to the South , limited space available

April 22 - May 5 , 2019

TNAFA is asking Indigenous educators, health professionals, farmers, community organizers, artist, language teachers, permacultureist, students and others to be part of this movement. We are seeking a limited number of participants for this tour (6). Participants will visit a number of communities in Southern and Western Belize, volunteer some labor in school and community garden projects.

The "Belize Tours" are part of TNAFA's "Pueblo to Pueblo Initiative" Program. The ISCDC participants from both the north and Belize get to see first hand the social and ecological environments , challenges they face. Participants get to share experiences and practical solutions that have worked in their own communities.

Some of the exchanges , sharing include cultural knowledge and traditional teachings. Topics range from sustainable farming, natural healing (health), food traditions, woman's health, education, language retention, local economic development and more.
